

Florence Nightingale & Global Health

Friday, November 4, 2011
11:30 am - 1:30 pm, Room 1175

The goal of this program is to relate Florence Nightingale and Mary Grant Seacole's (Florence Nightingale of Jamaica) legacy with nurses' capacities to influence local-to-global health, including the eight U.N. Millennium Development Goals

Objectives

As a result of successful completion of the workshop, participants will be able to:

- Link Florence Nightingale and Mary Grant Seacole's life, work and insights with their legacy for 21st century nursing and healthcare
- Describe the connections between key global health challenges - including selected U.N. Millennium Development goals - and the problems nurses face today
- Identify the questions and attitudes health professionals have regarding diverse cultural group and relate Mary Grant Seacole's work in multi-cultures in many countries

Sponsors:

