

Bride of the Wind: A Life of Heartache

Bride of the Wind is a film based on the days Alma Mahler spent living in the 1900s as a musician who can't seem to find love. Thought that she found love, Alma, marries a famous composer of the 1900s, Gustav Mahler. Throughout the years Alma overcomes many adversities where she buries her oldest child, had an affair, and can't seem to find Mr. Right.

To begin with, Alma Mahler was just a teenager when she first met Gustav Mahler the 1900s composer. From there they became close and had a short courtship where Gustav asks Alma if she would be his wife. Alma didn't know what will happen once she marries Gustav but she knew she was in love with him. The Mahlers have two children, Maria and Anna. Maria died of pneumonia and Alma and Gustav was heart broken. Therefore Alma went to a treatment center so she can get well.

Secondly, while at the treatment center, Alma met and fell in love with Walter the architect and had an affair. Heartbroken, Gustav found out about the affair when Walter sent Alma a letter saying how much he miss her and that he love her. Gustav had pneumonia and he was also dying so Alma decides to stay by his bedside then to go find her love, Walter. When Gustav died Alma briefly dated Walter but the romance did not last.