

European Architecture Study Abroad Program

The School of Architecture will offer a European Architecture study abroad option as a complement to ARC 2765 (Introduction to Cities of the World), ARC 2767 (Architectural History: Urban Spaces) and ARC 1113 (Sketchbook Studies). The program is designed for students of Architecture and for others who may profit from in situ study of city space and places, environmental design, and the aesthetics of structures. Students will return with an appreciation of other cultures, an awareness of European design development, an awareness of international problems and issues, a sense of global interdependence, and general cultural enrichment. Specifically in terms of the academic discipline, it is expected that the experience will provide insight and meaning to architecture and environmental design in differing urban settings as manifested in places visited for the time they were created.

The program will be offered in an academic travel format during Summer A Term, from May 13th thru May 27th, 2009 visiting Germany, Czech Republic, Austria and Hungary following initial on-campus instruction for two weeks, pre-departure orientation sessions, with the study tour portion taught abroad. Students will have the option of registering for 3 to 9 credits. Students will be evaluated based on the course competencies. Course objectives are the same as those established for on-campus courses, with the added dimension of on-site, first-hand experience.

The courses will be taught by Professor Amar Sawhney who has taught architectural design, drawing and architectural communications for 33 years.

Cost of the program is $3200 per student under 23 years old and $3713 for 24 years old and older.
