Last week: I hope everyone had a safe and enjoyable Independence Day. We illuminated the Freedom Tower at MDC in red, white and blue, and I was reminded of everything our great nation offers but also the work that remains to build bridges of understanding. In other news, MDC was awarded a U.S. Department of Labor "Scaling Apprenticeship Through Sector-Based Strategies" Grant worth nearly $2 million to expand and create new apprenticeship opportunities. The funds will be used to develop the Miami Dade Apprenticeship Partnership in Information Technology (MAP IT) project, which will focus on information technology and related industries.

Looking ahead: Fall registration continues at all our fine State College, including MDC. Whether traditional degree or short-term programs, that range from career certificates to apprenticeships, enroll today to get the hottest emerging jobs that will put you and your families on the pathway to prosperity. A college credential is a must in today's 21st century global knowledge economy and Florida's State Colleges offer the greatest education value and quality in the nation. Don't forget MDC will also soon open its new Center for Learning, Innovation and Simulation at Medical Campus. It will be a gamechanger for the region's healthcare industry.

Author DAWN A. DAVIS

“For anyone who knows what a Caribbean upbringing entails, it is grounded in a sensibility that apart from one’s faith, education is the most important tenet of life. And I was a Girl Guide throughout high school. So discipline, decorum and an active dedication to serving the underserved ordered my life.”

Harrison called herself “a proud Caribbean American woman tried and true... Can’t leave out the escoveitched fish and bammy, ‘buss up shut’ and curry, and my mother’s delicious shrimp vegetable chow mein.”

FIRST JOB

Harrison brought those memories and values with her when she migrated to the United States in 1979 at age 17. She recalled her first job in the U.S. fondly.

“I was responsible for stocking and restocking the Hallmark Cards in the store,” she said of her part time gig at Woolworth in Buffalo, New York. “I felt so important, and I took pride in making sure the cards were in the right place and arranged well...

Work ethic is so important in one’s professional and personal development.”

Harrison’s rise in education administration began after she graduated from the University of Buffalo with a bachelor’s degree and assumed a full time position in the school’s Personnel Department, where she previously worked as a student assistant. She was later given more responsibility as an administrator. She earned master’s and doctoral degrees from Florida International University and Walden University and taught English as a second language and served as dean of student sat MDC.

As MDC dean, Harrison made it her mission to connect with students personally, helping them to reach their own educational goals and making sure they were economically and emotionally stable.

“Almost 45 percent of our students are living in poverty,” Harrison explained. “Many are the head of their households.

“Therefore, knowing the affordable housing, transportation, food insecurity, and overall poverty issues of our local community, we at MDC understand that our students are facing many life challenges as they work toward attaining a college degree and moving beyond.”

SINGLE STOP

That realization motivated Harrison to create a social program to address those needs. She was a founding dean for MDC's Single Stop program, which provides students direct support and referrals to address life issues, including help with cash assistance, food stamps and other support dealing with housing and child services.

As president of MDC's North and Padron campuses, Harrison continues to affect students directly.

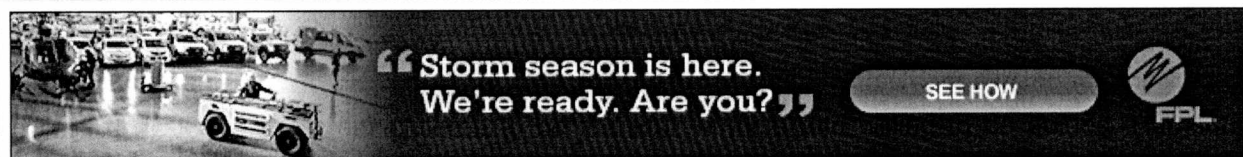

“My goal for both campuses is that our ‘Students First’ motto will continue to prevail in the hearts and minds of all faculty and staff as we endeavor to heighten our mindfulness and action around student success,” she said.

“...We meet our students where they are, and together we develop a pathway of courses, support services, and experiential opportunities to propel them to the finish line, with degree in hand plus a tool box of competencies in communication, critical thinking, social responsibility, environmental and aesthetic appreciation.”

Dr. Harrison views her accomplishments as shared successes, noting they came with the support of staff, students, community and family that has propelled the university to where it is today. She said she has instilled values in her four children to be thankful, humble and willing to be guided. Harrison is grateful for her background.

“My Caribbean upbringing has everything to do with how I carry myself as a woman in leadership, the high standards to which I hold myself so that I ensure I am an example of fairness and integrity to others,” she said.

To address the ever-increasing demand for experienced cloud technology professionals, Miami Dade College (MDC) has opened a state-of-the-art Cloud Computing Center at the Eduardo J. Padrón Campus, 627 SW 27 Ave.

As the only venue of its kind in Florida, the center will allow technology leaders, industry experts and students to engage and learn about leading cloud platforms and receive industry certifications, in collaboration with Amazon Web Services, Generation and Microsoft.

The launch of the center, including a ribbon-cutting ceremony, facility tour and demonstration activities, took place on June 27.

"We are proud to launch MDC's Cloud Computing Center," said Dr. Malou C. Harrison, president of the Eduardo J. Padrón and North Campuses. "MDC is known for being a leader in higher education offering new and relevant programs to meet the

The Cloud Computing Center houses the only College Credit Certificate and Associate of Science degree in Enterprise Cloud Computing in Florida. It will expose students and existing IT professionals to industry leading cloud platforms and industry certifications needed to fill the burgeoning demand of IT cloud jobs in the workplace.

The Enterprise Cloud Computing program is designed to provide an opportunity to establish a foundation in architect-scalable, highly-available application solutions that leverage cloud computing services, utilizing best practices that focus on Cloud security, cost, and reliability. Graduates will utilize core design patterns and infrastructure expertise to implement solutions to deploy and maintain workloads and applications. This Enterprise Cloud Computing program focuses on broad, transferable skills and stresses understanding and demonstration of the following elements of Cloud computing: Cloud Fundamentals, Cloud Infrastructure and Services, Networking Technologies, Database Concepts and Design, and Linux.

CLOUD COMPUTING CENTER OPENS AT MIAMI DADE COLLEGE

Miami Dade College, South Florida's largest college by enrollment, last week held the grand opening for the Cloud Computing Center on the Eduardo J Padrón Campus in Miami.

The center will house Florida's only college-credit certificate and Associate of Science degree in enterprise cloud computing. The program is intended to allow students and IT professionals to obtain industry certifications needed to fill the growing demand of IT cloud jobs across South Florida and the U.S.

The estimated tuition cost for an associate degree in networking services technology with a concentration in enterprise cloud computing is $7,093 for two years of classes. Online classes for the degree are also available.

What happened to the $10,000 degree?

Miami Dade College uses a merit scholarship program to hold costs for its baccalaureate programs under $10,000 for qualifying students. (Photo: MDC)

BY BARBARA SHELLY JULY 7, 2019

Rick Perry had just been elected to a third term as governor of Texas when he issued a call to the state's public colleges and universities in a 2011 speech.

"Today, I'm challenging our institutions of higher education to develop bachelor's degrees that cost no more than $10,000, including textbooks," Perry said.

The next year, former Florida Gov. Rick Scott made a similar ask to colleges in his state.

The “$10,000-degree challenge,” as both Republican governors called it, attracted strong interest in higher education circles. Advocates saw it as a way to rein in costs and encourage innovation. Critics regarded it as a formula for dumbing down a college education.

In both states, institutions struggled with the assignment. Legislatures in Texas and Florida never came through with additional state funding to get the new degree programs started. Those that were designed were narrowly crafted, often requiring students to decide on a particular field and pick up college credits while still in high school.

But while the appeal of the $10,000 degree as a political buzzword has faded, the concept still exists in Texas, Florida and elsewhere – even if the price has inflated a bit.

“My personal feeling is that it helped move things along, to have the governor say he wanted us as a state to have more affordable baccalaureate programs,” said Mike Midgley, vice president of instruction at Austin Community College (ACC).

Market forces helped too, Midgley said. Austin’s health care and tech industries have been clamoring for affordable programs to equip students with bachelor’s degrees.

Three options

ACC students will soon have three options for earning a bachelor’s degree for around $10,000. Two of those became possible when the Texas legislature in 2017 passed a bill expanding the ability of community colleges to offer baccalaureates in high-demand fields. ACC went to work designing bachelor’s programs in nursing and computer information technology.

The third option is a bachelor of applied technology degree in computers and information through the Texas Affordable Baccalaureate program. Known as TAB, the program is the most tangible outgrowth of Perry’s $10,000-degree challenge. The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board worked with institutions to design competency-based bachelor-level programs that could be completed in three years or sooner.

TAB programs don't specify that costs for students must be held to $10,000 – although often they are. Schools are required to offer the degrees at less than half the price of a traditional baccalaureate program at Texas' public universities, which currently averages about $9,000 a year.

The 13 TAB programs created so far are proving popular among service members, students returning to school after a hiatus and adult learners in general, said Heather Marsh, executive director of the Texas Higher Education Foundation, which supports the coordinating board and its initiatives.

Marsh said backers had to overcome some resistance to get the programs started.

"We were sitting on the funding for awhile before we could convince faculty that this was a good idea," she said.

Many of the programs are just underway, and officials did not have a count of the number of students enrolled in TAB programs statewide.

Part of state policy

In Florida, the follow up to Scott's $10,000-degree challenge fell to the Florida College System – formerly named community colleges that now offer selected bachelor programs in high-demand fields in addition to associate degrees.

"Governor Scott delivered a very strong message to the colleges to get on board," said Julie Alexander, vice provost for academic affairs at Miami Dade College (MDC).

A four-year degree in the system was already the lowest in the nation – about $13,000 for tuition and fees – when Scott issued his challenge. College leaders at first attempted to meet the $10,000 test by creating narrow degree pathways that turned out to have limited student appeal.

But the goal continues to be part of state policy, and schools have found more flexible ways to meet it. The Florida Department of Education's most current data shows more than 15,000 students enrolled in programs with a $ 10,000-degree option – although the report stated the average cost has increased to $13,826.

MDC uses a merit scholarship program to hold costs for its baccalaureate programs under $10,000 for some students. New graduates of local high schools who qualify based on grades and attend college full time pay no tuition for the first two years, Alexander said.

The scholarship, which is funded mostly by local donors, was in place when Scott issued his challenge. “Since then we’ve expanded it,” Alexander said.

Currently, 446 MDC students are seeking $10,000 degrees through the scholarship route.

The beat goes on

Opinions on the success of the $10,000-degree challenges tend to fall along political lines. Allies of the Republican governors contend they spurred innovation and affordable options. Others say programs marketed as $10,000-degree options are really just a rebranding of initiatives already in the works or prompted by calls from employers.

Although the slow trajectory of the Texas and Florida experiments may have discouraged other governors from issuing their own challenges, the appeal of a $10,000 degree has not disappeared.

Educators in Prince George’s County, Maryland, in 2017 announced a route to a $10,000 degree, beginning with high school students earning dual credits from Prince George’s Community College and finally earning degrees from the University of Maryland University College.

And in North Carolina, the chancellor of Fayetteville State University (FSU) last year touted a partnership with the state’s community colleges that could lead to bachelor’s degrees at a cost of less than $10,000.

The program, which leans heavily on online courses, is aimed at making college more accessible to the state’s large rural population, and to provide an affordable alternative to for-profit colleges, said FSU Vice Chancellor Jon Young.

Students in North Carolina seem to like the sound of a $10,000 degree. Close to 100 of them have completed “intent to enroll” applications, Young said.

Miami Dade College and Miami-Dade Public Library System to Host Summer Reading Challenge

Miami, June 25, 2019 - A 'Universe of Stories' awaits this summer! Miami Dade College (MDC) in partnership with the Miami-Dade Public Library System (MDPLS), will host the Summer Reading Challenge. This college-wide initiative by MDC's Learning Resources department encourages summer reading, and will run through Saturday, Aug. 3, at all MDC's campuses.

The more books a person reads, the more chances of winning great prizes, such as: Miami Marlins tickets, Miami Dolphins and Miami Heat autographed memorabilia, a one-year family membership to the Phillip and Patricia Frost Museum of Science, a family four-pack of tickets for a show at the Adrienne Arsht Center, and much more. Program is open to all MDC students, staff and faculty.

Visit any library at MDC to register and pick up a reading log. Visitors can check out books and/or audiobooks. They can also complete and submit one entry ticket for every 30 minutes someone reads or listens to a book. Submit as many entries as you like. The drawing will take place after Aug 3. You do not need to be present to win.

Miami high school students qualify for banking internships as part of Future Bankers Camp hosted by Center for Financial Training, local banks and Miami Dade College

Interns will receive training to earn American Bankers Association Bank Teller Certificates and the opportunity to enhance math, communication and financial literacy skills.

MIAMI, June 13, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- MIAMI-- June 13, 2019 – Scores of high school students in Miami-Dade County, Fla., have been selected to participate in the prestigious 12th annual Future Bankers Camp, which includes summer internships at area financial institutions.

The innovative four-week camp will give 104 students the opportunity to enhance math, communication and financial literacy skills in the classroom followed by internships with hands-on experience at 30 banks, credit unions, and institutions in Miami-Dade County. In addition, the students will receive bank teller training and on completion of the internships will receive American Bankers Association Bank Teller Certificates.

"For more than a decade our Future Bankers Camp has been successful in giving high school students a close-up view of what a career in banking could be like for them. We deeply appreciate the generous partnership of the financial community, which has gone out of its way to provide guidance and mentorship," said Connie Laguna, president and CEO of the Center for Financial Training - Southeastern.

The Future Bankers Camp is a project of the Center for Financial Training - Southeastern, Miami Dade College Miguel B. Fernandez Family Global School of Business & Continuing Education, CareerSource of South Florida, and Cuban American National Council (CNC). The South Florida Banking Institute and Albert E. Acuña, P.A. also are involved. The students are enrolled in Academy of Finance high school programs within Miami-Dade County Public Schools.

Participating banks and credit unions are Amerant Bank, Apollo Bank, Bac Florida, Banco Pichincha, Banco Santander, Banesco USA, Baptist Health South Florida F.C.U., BBVA Compass Bank, Capital Bank, City National Bank, Continental National Bank, FirstBank Florida, First National Bank of South Miami, Grove Bank & Trust, Helm Bank USA, International Finance Bank, JetStream Federal Credit Union, JP Morgan Chase & Co., Marquis Bank, Ocean Bank, Pacific National Bank, Popular Bank, Power Financial Credit Union, Professional Bank, Sunstate Bank, TD Bank, U.S. Century Bank and Wells Fargo Bank.

"We are living in an age of technology in which many young people are unaware of what takes place at a bank. It's important they see how we help our community to thrive through access to capital and how we develop face-to-face relationships with clients. At Ocean Bank, we are proud of our role with the Future Bankers Camp and having been host to 310 high school interns through the years. I look forward to meeting the 25 interns our bank will host this year," said A. Alfonso Macedo, president and CEO of Ocean Bank.

41 Exemplary LGBTQ Student Leaders Receive Critical Support for Higher Education

LOS ANGELES, June 19, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Point Foundation (Point), the nation's largest scholarship-granting organization for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer (LGBTQ) students, today announced its 2019 scholarship recipients. The students receiving support from Point this year make up a group of passionate activists, ready and willing to fight for progress in the face of an increasing lack of support for LGBTQ people at the highest levels of government. 16 LGBTQ students were chosen to be Point Scholars from more than 2,100 applicants. Point is also welcoming 25 LGBTQ students to its Community College Scholarship Program.

THE NATIONAL LGBTQ SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Point's scholarship recipients are talented students with a proven track record of challenging unjust laws and policies, offering guidance to future generations, and using artistry to combat long-lasting discrimination. In addition to their fearless leadership, they have battled obstacles including immigration status, homelessness, family rejection, and abuse. Each one of them has the dedication and resilience to inspire change across the country.

A complete list of scholarship recipients appears below; bios for each are available on Point's website, www.pointfoundation.org/meet.

"These LGBTQ students have demonstrated the potential to be the informed and visionary leaders our society needs right now," said Jorge Valencia, Executive Director and Chief Executive Officer of Point Foundation. "Their dedication to making the world around them a better place provides our community with the promise of a better future. Point is grateful to the incredible people and companies whose support relieves the crushing burden of financing education and presents our scholars with a new world of opportunity."

In the 2019–2020 academic year, 85 LGBTQ students will receive financial assistance and programmatic support from Point as they pursue their associate, bachelor's, or advanced degrees. After graduating, students become part of Point's growing alumni network, connecting them with hundreds of caring individuals and professional contacts throughout the nation. These connections and experiences help to shape the leaders who will go on to defend and advance the rights of LGBTQ people and create a more inclusive, equitable society.

Miami Lakes Vice Mayor Nelson Rodriguez to challenge Cindy Polo in HD 103

Polo defeated former Miami Lakes Vice Mayor Frank Mingo to take the seat in 2018.

By Ryan Nicol on July 9, 2019

Democratic state Rep. Cindy Polo won her first term in the House after defeating former Miami Lakes Vice Mayor Frank Mingo in 2018.

To hold on her seat, it looks as if she'll be taking on Mingo's replacement.

Vice Mayor Nelson Rodriguez has filed paperwork with the Florida Division of Elections to enter the contest for House District 103. He'll be running as a Republican to attempt to oust Polo.

In addition to his time serving on the Miami Lakes Town Council, Rodriguez has also spent more than three decades as a firefighter. He has also worked as an adjunct instructor at Miami Dade College and has served in various education organizations such as the Miami-Dade PTA Council.

In 2018 Polo defeated Mingo by 6 percentage points. That's despite Mingo besting Polo when it came to fundraising.

So far, Polo and Rodriguez are the only two candidates who have filed to run in the contest.

HD 103 covers parts of Miami Lakes and Doral in Miami-Dade County and also extends into Miramar in Broward County.

Amerant's Brian Barroso Named Trustee And Executive Committee Member Of HistoryMiami Museum

7/8/19

Brian Barroso

Amerant Bank (<https://www.mercantilbank.com/>), the largest community bank headquartered in Florida, proudly announces that Brian Barroso, Senior Vice President, CRE Relationship Manager, has been recently appointed as a trustee and executive committee member of HistoryMiami Museum.

As a member of HistoryMiami's executive committee, Barroso will help track progress towards strategic goals and initiatives, provide organizational oversight by assigning tasks and committees, as well as make decisions that align with HistoryMiami's mission.

HistoryMiami, located in Downtown Miami, shares Miami's stories to foster learning, inspire a sense of place, and build an engaged and involved community. With values that fall in line with Amerant's community-driven outreach, HistoryMiami connects and educates members of the community to shape and empower visitors as well as South Florida neighborhoods as a whole.

"It is a great privilege to serve on HistoryMiami's executive committee and guide the museum to further connecting to the people of Miami," said Barroso. "Working with this foundation has and will continue to give me the opportunity to become more involved in my immediate community and take part in shaping Miami's future."

With 15 years of experience in the finance industry, Barroso has served Amerant for the past five years. In his role as Senior Vice President, CRE Lending Officer, he manages portfolios and fosters relationships with real estate funds. Additionally, he served as Vice President SAD Manager and Vice President SAD Special Assets Officer at Amerant.

Prior to joining the Amerant, he held roles including U.S. Century Bank's Commercial Real Estate Lender and VP CRE Relationship Manager, where he expanded the bank's network of contacts and represented the bank at several trade organizations. In addition, Barroso previously worked at Bank United as a Commercial Real Estate Lender and Credit Analyst, where he solicited new real estate relationships and analyzed a variety of loan types.

"We are proud to announce Barroso's involvement with such an educational organization in our community," added Millar Wilson, Vice-Chairman and CEO of Amerant Bank. "He is an integral part of Amerant's team and we are confident that he will be successful in advancing the museum's impact on the community."

Barroso majored in finance and business administration at The University of Florida as well as earned an associate's degree in business administration from Miami Dade College.

Amerant, headquartered in Coral Gables, offers 23 banking centers in its network, with 15 in South Florida, eight in Houston, Texas, and one loan production office in New York as well as a newly opened loan and deposit production office in Dallas, Texas.

For additional information about our new brand, please visit www.amerantbank.com (<http://www.amerantbank.com/>) and follow the Bank on Twitter at @AmerantBank.

MOAD MDC PRESENTS: PATHS THROUGH UTOPIAS (2011)

MOAD MDC presents Real Utopias, a series of films that examine past and current experiments in our collective search for freedom, equality, and democracy.

Blurring the fluid boundaries between present and future, documentary and fiction, Paths Through Utopias is a feature-length utopian road movie exploring a post-capitalist Europe. Shot during a seven-month journey in 2008, visiting ten utopian experiments—from the direct-action Climate Camp set up illegally beside Heathrow airport to a hamlet squatted by French art punks, from occupied self-managed Serbian factories to a free-love commune in an ex Stasi base—this magic-realist travelogue transports us to a parallel universe where money is worthless and private property has been abolished.

Vacaciones a la italiana en el Sur

El productor italiano Flavio Bianchi acaba de rodar el filme 'Paradise' en el sur de Gran Canaria y lo ha inscrito en un festival de cine de Miami

Amalia García-Alcalde | 08.07.2019 | 22:19

El productor italiano Flavio Bianchi acaba de realizar un filme rodado en el sur de Gran Canaria, titulado 'Paradise'. El argumento gira en torno a dos amigos que llegan con sus parejas a la Isla por vacaciones y comienzan a vivir situaciones muy cómicas. Un director de cine, Daniel Merendoni, que reside en Miami, se ha interesado por este proyecto que aporta una bella imagen promocional de las Islas Canarias.

El productor Flavio Bianchi. J. C. GUERRA

El productor Flavio Bianchi acaba de realizar un filme que ha ocupado nueve meses de rodaje en el sur de Gran Canaria titulado Paradise. Se trata de una comedia en la que dos amigos italianos llegan con sus parejas a la isla por vacaciones y comienzan a vivir situaciones muy divertidas que se entremezclan entre sí, tanto durante la vida nocturna como durante el día en la playa o haciendo surf en el Inglés y Maspalomas.

Durante la película, su director y miembro del elenco de actores, Armando Silveira, va realizando comentarios que explican de forma poética lo que va ocurriendo. Una de las parejas protagonistas tiene enfrentamientos a lo largo de la trama y termina separándose. Actúan tanto actores españoles como italianos y se utilizan los dos idiomas. Un director de cine, Daniel Merendoni en Miami, se interesó por este proyecto de Bianchi porque desconocía las Islas y este se ocupó de aportar una bella imagen promocional de sus paisajes. El salmantino Silveira la ha inscrito en el Festival de Miami y tiene intención de hacerlo en los españoles también. Bianchi es el realizador de la historia, actor, productor ejecutivo y compositor de la banda sonora. Se ha decidido por el proyecto al contar con el respaldo de Merendoni quien "me ha dicho que he realizado un buen producto pese a los pocos medios económicos y pese a la dificultad de la mezcla de actores de dos nacionalidades", señala Bianchi. El productor de Paradise no espera una gran rentabilidad del producto en un principio, pero sí obtener

Documental "Where Chaos Reigns" nominado al Ibero-American Short Film Awards (</noticias/arte-y-espectaculos/3697-documental-where-chaos-reigns-nominado-al-ibero-american-short-film-awards>)

El documental "Where Chaos Reigns", sobre la cruenta batalla que dieron los venezolanos en las calles durante el 2017, producido por el joven Braulio Miguel Jatar con la codirección de Anaïs Michel, fue nominado al Ibero-American Short Film Awards.

La producción "Donde reina el caos" competirá en la categoría de cortos de HBO y será presentado en el Miami Film Festival el venidero mes de Marzo.

El trabajo fue realizado en Venezuela durante las protestas del 2017. Cuenta la crisis política, económica y humanitaria sin precedentes que atraviesa Venezuela, pero lo hace desde la iniciativa de una joven estudiante de medicina, Daniella, quien creó con sus compañeros un grupo paramédico llamado "Primeros Auxilios UCV", distinguidos por una cruz verde en sus cascos, en un esfuerzo por ayudar a los heridos en los enfrentamientos. La vida cotidiana de turbulencia de Daniela, como de miles de venezolanos es narrada en "Where Chaos Reigns".

La agitación social de cada día, el caos reinante en las calles, miles de personas marchando todos los días protestando por el respeto hacia los derechos de los venezolanos, es el argumento del film cuyas imágenes inéditas fueron captadas al momento por el venezolano Braulio Miguel Jatar, hijo del comunicador Braulio Jatar, preso desde el 2016, por publicar en su página digital Reporte Confidencial, una protesta contra Nicolás Maduro protagonizada por vecinos del sector Villa Rosa en isla Margarita.

Con la misma venia humana y periodística de su padre, Braulio se lanza a las calles de Caracas para documentar la realidad. Sale luego del país y profesionaliza su actividad con estudios de cine documental en la ciudad de Nueva York donde produce su primer corto "Where Chaos Reigns", codirigido con Anaïs Michel, también documentalista y editora profesional en Nueva York.

Anaïs aporta su experticia en el mundo de la post producción tras haber trabajado en grandes compañías como lo son Vice y HBO.

El Festival de Cine de Miami se inauguró en 1984 y desde entonces ha ganado gran reconocimiento por los éxitos fílmicos presentados que representan a extraordinarios cineastas establecidos y emergentes.

Estrellas del gran cine han adornado la alfombra roja a través de los años. Gregory Peck,, Kris Kristofferson, Candice Bergen, Kevin Kline, Michael Caine, Antonio Banderas, Melanie Griffith, Willem Dafoe, Demi Moore, Anne Hathaway, entre muchos grandes nombres y ha contado con la distribución y transmisión teatral de importantes empresas como 20th Century Fox, Warner Bros., The Weinstein Company, Sony Pictures Classics, Music Box Films, HBO Documentary Films, HBO Latino y Miramax.

Retina Latina apuesta por la formación para mejorar la distribución y hacer frente a los nuevos desafíos digitales

Distribución, Exhibición / VOD - Colombia

julio 4, 2019

Del 8 al 11 de julio, la plataforma online de cine latinoamericano Retina Latina organiza “Conecta: Laboratorio de distribución para América Latina y el Caribe”, una iniciativa de formación que busca “generar estrategias innovadoras para la circulación de la producción audiovisual latinoamericana, atendiendo a las nuevas pantallas y dinámicas del consumo audiovisual en el entorno digital”. La actividad tendrá lugar en el marco de la décima edición del Bogotá Audiovisual Market (BAM).

Una treintena de jóvenes profesionales menores de 30 años provenientes de Bolivia, Brasil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Guatemala, México, Nicaragua, Perú, Puerto Rico, República Dominicana y Uruguay participarán en este laboratorio donde, de la mano de expertos internacionales, podrán ampliar sus conocimientos en la distribución de obras cinematográficas en pantallas tradicionales y digitales, además de fomentar el trabajo en red y la integración regional.

La selección final estuvo a cargo de Diana Cadavid, Directora Asociada de Programación e Industria para el Miami Film Festival, y entre los seleccionados se encuentran tanto realizadores como productores y profesionales vinculados a la exhibición y festivales cinematográficos. El proceso de selección fue realizado con el apoyo de distintas instituciones, asociaciones y escuelas cinematográficas de toda la región.

Entre los expertos invitados se encuentran profesionales de plataformas VoD, agregadores, agentes de ventas y productores, entre los que destacan Juliette Canon (Festival Scope, Francia), Lidia Damatto (FiGa Films, Brasil), Andrea Sánchez (Cinépolis KLIC, México), Juliana Moreira de Souza (Under The Milky Way, Brasil) y Gabriela Sandoval (Storyboard Media, Chile), entre otros. “Circuitos alternos y marketing para el mercado doméstico”, “El agregador digital para plataformas VOD”, “Programación y marketing cross-media”, “Desarrollo de audiencias para salas alternativas” y “Experiencias alternativas en distribución y exhibición”, son los títulos de algunas de las conferencias que forman parte del programa.

Conecta se realizará como parte de las actividades del proyecto “Apropiación, fortalecimiento y promoción del cine latinoamericano a través de la plataforma digital regional de cine www.retinalatina.org”, presentado por el Ministerio de Cultura de Colombia, en calidad de entidad coordinadora de Retina Latina, con el apoyo de los países miembros de la plataforma, y beneficiario del Fondo Internacional para la Diversidad Cultural (FIDC) de la UNESCO.

Desde su lanzamiento en marzo de 2016, la plataforma online Retina Latina ha alcanzado más de un millón y medio de visitas y publicado 319 obras cinematográficas de distintos países de la región. Para su desarrollo e implementación, la plataforma contó con el apoyo del Banco Interamericano de Desarrollo (BID).

El humor gráfico, con casi tres siglos auestas, es hoy un arte expresivo y comunicador de primer orden, que MUNDIARIO trae a su página home de la mano de Manel Vizoso.

Las manifestaciones del humor gráfico en la prensa son rastreables desde el siglo XVIII. Si bien en los medios digitales rara vez se han hecho presentes en sus primeras páginas, MUNDIARIO incorpora los dibujos de Manel Vizoso a su página home.

MUNDIARIO, que se define como un periódico de análisis y opinión, parte de la base de que el humor dibujado, con casi tres siglos auestas, es hoy un arte expresivo y comunicador de primer orden, que debe estar ya para siempre en su primera página. A su vez, este periódico asume que el humor gráfico también contempla la fotografía, de lo cual dan testimonio las exposiciones del Miami Dade College, en Florida ( EE UU); el Portocartoon, en Portugal, y la Casa del Humor de Gabrovo, en Bulgaria.

Lo que caracteriza al humor es lo incongruente, los cambios de valores y lo sorpresivo, o sea lo inesperado, y estos elementos están presentes en las viñetas y fotos de nuestros autores, todos ellos colaboradores habituales de este periódico. @mundiario
