Fintech startup Realfinity raises $2M

Realfinity, a Miami-based fintech for the real estate world, said it raised $2 million in pre-seed funding. The startup said it intends to use the funds to continue the development and growth of its HomeDashboard product for the real estate finance technology market. "This pre-seed debt-based financing allows us to complete important product milestones and is the prelude to a forthcoming round of funding," said Luca Dahlhausen, Co-Founder and GM of Realfinity.

The startup provides a platform connecting consumers to local real estate and lending experts through a digital concierge experience. HomeDashboard currently connects its consumer base of over 120,000 homeowners with financial data and services, co-branded with real estate professionals and loan officers, the company said.

Realfinity is a team of 14. Investors requested not be disclosed because they are private industry investors, the company said.

BCP Global funded by Bradesco Bank

To meet market demand for its digital platform ONE APP Solution for Latin Americans, Miami-based fintech BCP Global said it has closed a seed round fueled by an investment from Bradesco Bank, Brazil's biggest bank. The amount of Bradesco's funding was not disclosed.

BCP Global provides digital solutions for financial institutions and advisors. In addition to the current suite of products of investment portfolios and lending, the company plans to offer a trading app for stocks and crypto, a checking account with a debit card, credit cards, digital life insurance and portfolio lending at extremely competitive rates through Interactive Brokers, said Mauricio Armando CEO & Co-founder of BCP Global.

In October 2020, Bradesco landed in Miami, completing the acquisition of US-based BAC Florida bank. "Partnering up with BCP Global will allow us to cater to the mass-affluent market, which represents a huge opportunity not only in Brazil but also the rest of Latam," said Ricardo Lanfranchi, CEO & President of Bradesco Investments.

Comcast awards $100K to MDC to bridge digital divide

Comcast awarded a $100,000 grant to Miami Dade College as part of its Digital Adoption Initiative, aiming to bridge the digital divide and increase digital equity in South Florida communities. One in five households in Miami don’t have internet access at home.

The grant funding will be used to teach MDC students to become Digital Navigators, individuals affiliated with trusted community organizations who are trained to help people access the Internet, use devices, and build digital skills. Once their training is complete, the new MDC Digital Navigators will begin working in South Florida communities with a low digital adoption rate. Members of community-based organizations will also be trained to become digital instructors to provide digital literacy courses for their clients and communities. Set to launch this fall, the Digital Navigators program will provide participating students with instruction, free tuition, service-learning hours and a $250 stipend.

Digital Navigators is a part of Project UP, Comcast’s comprehensive, one-billion-dollar initiative to advance digital equity over the next ten years.

But wait, there’s MORE news to note

- SMALL BUSINESS SUPPORT: The Beeck Center for Social Impact + Innovation at Georgetown University and Centre for Public Impact announced that Miami-Dade will join The Opportunity Project for Cities. During the program, Miami-Dade will participate in a 20-week design sprint that partners government practitioners and community organizations with pro bono support from Google whose employees will help to research, design and create digital tools that support local entrepreneurs and small business owners by lowering the barriers to starting a business. “Through collaboration and innovation, we aim to cut red tape and create an even more supportive environment for residents and entrepreneurs who are eager to invest in our local economy,” said Miami-Dade Mayor Daniella Levine Cava. Axis Helps will connect entrepreneurs with the resources.
- MAGIC LEAP: Magic Leap 2 will officially go on sale Sept 30., Magic Leap announced this week. Prices for the headset will start at $3,299, with the most expensive version intended for enterprise clients “that require flexible, large scale IT deployments” starting at $4,999. Magic Leap also announced this week that it is opening up sales of Magic Leap 2 with Developer Pro with pre-release (beta) software.
- HEALTHSNAP, an integrated Virtual Care Platform company, said that Prisma Health will make HealthSnap’s Remote Patient Monitoring (RPM) and Chronic Care Management (CCM) platform available to more than 100,000 Prisma Health patients across the state who have one or more chronic conditions. HealthSnap’s RPM and CCM platforms help its customers better integrate their care teams to deliver proactive and remote care between office visits. From chronic disease-agnostic RPM and CCM to AI-guided care coordination, patented billing reports, and population analytics, HealthSnap manages chronic conditions remotely. Prisma Health will leverage HealthSnap for its growing inVio Health Network, a clinically integrated network (CIN).
- LA CASA: The second annual La Casa conference will take place on Nov. 30, during Art Basel Week in Miami. La Casa, an invite-only event dedicated to conversation, collaboration and celebration of the tech & innovation ecosystem in South Florida, is produced by Florida Funders, eMerge Americas and Carve Communications. In 2021, the first La Casa drew more than 500 attendees and hosted more than 50 speakers including Grammy award-winning artist, investor & entrepreneur Armando Christian “Pitbull” Perez, Co-Founder & CEO of Cameo Steven Galanis, Co-Founder & CEO of Blockchain.com Peter Smith, and Founder & GP of Arrington Capital Michael Arrington. [\[READ MORE\]](#)
- INSIGHTEC: The medical technology company based in Israel and Miami and led by Maurice Ferre received U.S. Food and Drug Administration approval to study the effectiveness of its Exablate Prostate System, a medical device that uses ultrasound technology to treat prostate cancer. The single session treatment is noninvasive and does not require incisions, enabling patients to recover quickly with fewer complications, Insightec says.

Manuj Aggarwal Delivers Gripping Keynote on Future of AI at Miami Dade College

Business stakeholders and scholars at the Miami Dade College gathered on June 23, 2022, for a brief and important discussion on the future of Artificial Intelligence.

DOUALA, Cameroon, July 18, 2022 /PRNewswire-PRWeb/ -- Business stakeholders and scholars at the Miami Dade College gathered on June 23, 2022, for a brief and important discussion on the future of Artificial Intelligence.

Organized under the theme: "The Evolution of Life, Business, and Education in the Age of Artificial Intelligence", the brief academic session was chaired by Manny Perez, Dean of Engineering, Technology and Design, and Antonio Delgado Fornaguerathe Vice President of Innovation and Technology Partnerships at Miami Dade College.

With four patents in AI and machine learning to his name, Manuj Aggarwal, founder of TetraNoodle Technologies (<https://c212.net/c/link/?t=0&l=en&o=3594950-1&h=399827096&u=https%3A%2F%2Ftetranoodle.com%2F&a=TetraNoodle+Technologies>), was invited to share his opinion and knowledge on the subject matter.

After a series of thought-provoking analysis on the evolution of life through the advent of technology, Manuj noted that "life in the following years will almost become alien to today's observer, similar to how we viewed life in the 1940s and 1950s".

He went further to support the outlook of Andrew Ng, emphasizing that just as electricity transformed almost everything some 100 years ago, no industry will escape from AI revolution in the coming years.

The seasoned engineer, and now entrepreneur, did not fail to highlight the importance of data, and the battle over who controls the market share.

AI as a Consequence of the Abundance of Data

"There are currently over 44 zettabytes of data in the entire digital universe" - (PWC)

As data volumes grow, countries and businesses are now competing on how to make use of this enormous amount of data. The US has almost twice as many data centers as the UK, Germany, and China combined, according to Cloudscene.

AI is, therefore, a consequence of the different problems caused by growing volumes of data as we are now faced with unique problems in the new era of digital innovation among which include:

- Data management
- Pattern management
- Context management
- Decision management

- Action management
- Goal management and
- Risk management

After explaining the type of jobs that would be taken over by AI, such as drivers and taxi service providers, agricultural workers, print media, tax accountants, as well as cashiers, booksellers and publishers, and the advent of disruptive technologies, Manuj gave some hope in the following briefing:

"Despite how scary AI and automation technologies are seeming to make things look darker for future jobs, the dichotomy is black and white. There's a fundamental difference between eliminating some jobs from the labor market (to be replaced by other jobs), and eliminating humans in general from the labor market (to be replaced by machines)."

In essence, more jobs will be created, Manuj believes. We just have to upskill and be more creative. For instance:

- Experts predict robots will take over only those jobs that are repetitive.
- AI systems cannot replace the human gifts of creativity, innovation, or empathy.
- In healthcare, AI would (to a greater extent) be best utilized for enhanced decision-making rather than personnel replacement.

This event was organized by the Miami Dade College department of Applied AI in line with the series of activities as the venerable institution plans to create the next generation of curricula on cutting-edge technologies like AI, cybersecurity, and blockchain - just to name a few.

Manuj was listed as a member of the Artificial intelligence Advisory committee alongside world-class professors and fellow AI experts to advise the design and the development of the college's new degree program project.

Miami Dade College is one of the oldest colleges, and the second-largest post-secondary institution, in the United States with a mission to provide students with unmatched opportunities and access to in-demand and exciting careers in engineering and technology.

The issue of the modern curriculum and performance learning that meets the needs of incumbent job market demands and entrepreneurship is a severe challenge that most development-oriented universities around the world are looking to resolve.

The Mark Cuban Foundation's Artificial Intelligence Bootcamp Initiative Teaches AI Concepts to Underserved High School Students at a 4-Saturday Bootcamp

MIAMI, July 19, 2022 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) — Argo AI, a global autonomy company and products, will host a Mark Cuban Foundation Artificial Intelligence (AI) Bootcamp for high school students this fall at Miami Dade College's AI Center on the North Campus. The loose AI boot camp in Miami for the school's top academics will introduce underserved academics in grades nine to 12 to AI concepts and skills for beginners.

Argo AI is one of more than 20 host societies that decided to host 30 camps in the United States in the fall of 2022. Argo AI Bootcamp will be held for 4 consecutive Saturdays starting October 22 and ending on November 12.

Applications from academics and parents are now open in markcubanai.org/application. Students do not need any previous experience in computer science, programming, or robotics to apply and participate.

Throughout the AI Bootcamp, students will be informed what synthetic intelligence is and where they already interact with AI in their own lives. Students will gain advantages from volunteer mentors and instructors who are experts in knowledge science and can help students temporarily perceive the topic. subject taught at the school level. As part of the 5-hour program, students also work daily on Microsoft Azure, Microsoft's cloud computing platform, to create their own AI programs such as chatbots, computer vision, device information, and natural language processing. .

The Mark Cuban Foundation provides training camp materials, trains volunteer mentors, and recruits and selects local scholars to participate in the camp. In addition, the Mark Cuban Foundation and Argo AI combine to supply loose food, transportation, and laptops for academics for the duration of the Bootcamp.

Founded through Mark Cuban in 2019, the AI Bootcamp initiative has organized loose AI bootcamps for academics in several U. S. cities. In the U. S., adding Dallas, Pasadena, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Atlantic City, among others. academics to date and aims to have 1,000 academics graduated from the AI Bootcamps program by 2023.

Miami Selected as Host Site for Artificial Intelligence Bootcamp – APPLICATIONS NOW OPEN!

July 19, 2022 < <https://newslanes.com/2022/07/19/miami-selected-as-host-site-for-artificial-intelligence-bootcamp-applications-now-open/>>

MIAMI, July 19, 2022 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) — Argo AI, a global autonomy products and services company, will host a Mark Cuban Foundation Artificial Intelligence (AI) Bootcamp for high school students this fall at Miami Dade College's AI Center located in North Campus. The no cost AI Bootcamp in Miami for high school students will introduce underserved students in grades 9 through 12 to beginner AI concepts and skills.

Argo AI is one of 20+ host companies selected to host 30 camps across the US in Fall 2022. The Argo AI Bootcamp will be held over four consecutive Saturdays starting on October 22nd and ending on November 12th.

Student and parent applications are now open at markcubanai.org/application < do not need any prior experience with computer science, programming, or robotics to apply and attend.

Throughout the AI Bootcamp, students will learn what artificial intelligence is and where they already interact with AI in their own lives. Students will benefit from volunteer mentors and instructors who are knowledgeable about data science and able to help students quickly understand material normally taught at a collegiate level. As part of the 5-hour curriculum, students also get to work in Microsoft Azure, Microsoft's cloud computing platform, each day to build their own AI applications related to chatbots, computer vision, machine learning, and natural language processing.

The Mark Cuban Foundation provides the bootcamp's curriculum materials, trains volunteer mentors, and recruits and selects local students to attend camp. In addition, the Mark Cuban Foundation and Argo AI work together to provide food, transportation, and access to laptops for students at no cost throughout the duration of Bootcamp.

Founded by Mark Cuban in 2019, the AI Bootcamp initiative has hosted free AI bootcamps for students across several US cities, including Dallas, Pasadena, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Detroit, and Atlantic City, among others. The Mark Cuban Foundation has impacted 450+ students to date and has a goal to have 1,000 students graduate from AI Bootcamps Program in 2023.

The Mark Cuban Foundation's Artificial Intelligence Bootcamp Initiative Teaches AI Concepts to Underserved High School Students through a 4-Saturday Bootcamp

MIAMI, July 19, 2022 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Argo AI, a global autonomy products and services company, will host a Mark Cuban Foundation Artificial Intelligence (AI) Bootcamp for high school students this fall at Miami Dade College's AI Center located in North Campus. The no cost AI Bootcamp in Miami for high school students will introduce underserved students in grades 9 through 12 to beginner AI concepts and skills.

Argo AI is one of 20+ host companies selected to host 30 camps across the US in Fall 2022. The Argo AI Bootcamp will be held over four consecutive Saturdays starting on October 22nd and ending on November 12th.

Student and parent applications are now open at markcubanai.org/application (https://www.globenewswire.com/Tracker?data=PFxs2h-rrWc\_ihpm5T73XhszCaxeoFln1R9Xfit-8QBKSgumhQG84svyDkkAVr3l1Zip\_xiP4\_ABJEQ6YRVReLGMXOcYP0GYrRqkMjFnayqHOPK54EZa9H). Students do not need any prior experience with computer science, programming, or robotics to apply and attend.

Throughout the AI Bootcamp, students will learn what artificial intelligence is and where they already interact with AI in their own lives. Students will benefit from volunteer mentors and instructors who are knowledgeable about data science and able to help students quickly understand material normally taught at a collegiate level. As part of the 5-hour curriculum, students also get to work in Microsoft Azure, Microsoft's cloud computing platform, each day to build their own AI applications related to chatbots, computer vision, machine learning, and natural language processing.

The Mark Cuban Foundation provides the bootcamp's curriculum materials, trains volunteer mentors, and recruits and selects local students to attend camp. In addition, the Mark Cuban Foundation and Argo AI work together to provide food, transportation, and access to laptops for students at no cost throughout the duration of Bootcamp.

Founded by Mark Cuban in 2019, the AI Bootcamp initiative has hosted free AI bootcamps for students across several US cities, including Dallas, Pasadena, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Detroit, and Atlantic City, among others. # Freedom Tower heads to $25 million renovation

Written by Gabriela Enamorado on July 19, 2022

Miami Dade College's $25 million state-funded renovation of its historic Freedom Tower will focus on urgent structural repair and is in design development with engineers and architects, said President Madeline Pumariega. The focus is on repairing pipes, improving water and sewer infrastructure and outside restoration.

The building at 600 Biscayne Blvd. was home to Miami's first newspaper, the Miami Daily News. When the 289-foot-tower opened in 1925, ships used it to navigate. But over the years, the Freedom Tower has had wear and tear.

"It is not necessarily going to be a Freedom Tower beautification project. It's still going to be very much the way you see it today from the outside and as you walk in," said Ms. Pumariega. "The $25 million is ensuring that we perform all those structural repairs that are impacting the building. The public won't notice changes."

“What has to happen, a lot of the infrastructure stuff of the tower has to be reinforced,” said Ms. Pumariega. “This is because you get water intrusion. So that means you have to address water issues, and what happens when water intrudes is corrosion. So you have to come in and reinforce the concrete and columns that hold the tower up. Where there’s any rebar, you come in and reinforce all those areas.”

Work is on schedule, she said.

Once the Freedom Tower reopens, its most famous exhibits will be there, such as the first floor Kislak Collection of rare historical books, manuscripts, maps and Pre-Columbian artifacts that provide insight into the civilizations that shaped the Americas. The Cuban exile story and Cuban Legacy gallery will reopen as well. The Cuban Legacy gallery shows the Cuban exile influence on the culture in Miami and the Cuban Exile Story has lectures and displays on exile experiences.

“Really, it is not just for the Cuban exile community,” Ms. Pumariega said, “but so many that see the Freedom Tower as a beacon of hope, those exhibits will be back too.”

SFYS Summer Music Academy hosts 8-year-old Ukrainian boy

By Community News Releases - July 12, 2022

Kevin Segura (left) was 8-year-old Ivan Kytashevskyi's teacher during the South Florida Youth Symphony's

When 8-year-old Ivan Kytashevskyi's family fled Kyiv just one month before the Russian invasion, arriving in South Florida with just four suitcases, they left a lot behind — grandparents, friends, and careers.

But the one thing Ivan didn't leave behind was his love for music.

Thanks to the South Florida Youth Symphony, one of the nation's leading youth music organizations, Ivan continued his passion for music as part of the recently concluded 25th annual SFYS Summer Music Academy at the Miami Dade College North Campus.

Ivan received a scholarship — along with 24 other young musicians — from a Miami-Dade County Affairs grant. Several other students received grants through the Batchelor Foundation and the Nancy Friday Foundation.

The SFYS program is sponsored with the support of Miami-Dade County Department of Cultural Affairs, Miami-Dade County Mayor and County Commissioners, The Children's Trust, Miami-Dade County Office of Management and Budget, State of Florida Division of Cultural Affairs, The Kirk Foundation, Batchelor Foundation, and Nancy Friday Foundation.

"I loved camp," Ivan, who has an infectious smile, said through a translator. "At first I was worried because I didn't know anyone, but I've made so many friends and we've exchanged phone numbers."

In addition to being a stranger at the camp, language was another hurdle to overcome; Ivan and his parents, Oksana and Serhii, only speak Russian. The family arrived in the U.S. after being randomly selected in a Green Card lottery in 2021.

According to his summer teacher, Kevin Segura, an alumnus of the SFYS program, technology helped overcome the language barrier. Segura used Google Translate to convey his instructions to Ivan in English and Ivan used the same program to translate into Russian.

"At first it had its challenges," said Segura, band director at Hialeah-Miami Lakes Senior High School and producer of the Emmy-winning SFYS virtual concert during the pandemic.

"He didn't speak a single word of English. But, with Google Translate we didn't miss a beat.

Eventually Ivan was making full sentences and made friends. His progress was amazing."

And that progress was a relief to his parents who have other concerns on their minds after they settled in Hallandale.

Both sets of grandparents are still in Kyiv in occupied territory and a communications blackout has left the family in limbo.

"In the last month, there is no internet, no telephone, nothing," said Oksana, a seamstress.

"We are very worried."

"The last we heard, our apartment building was still standing," added Serhii, who owned a construction company before fleeing. He now works as a handyman. "We think that Ivan's music school is okay, but a rocket destroyed the building next to it."

For now, the family is settling in their new life in South Florida but even though their minds are still focused on their homeland, relatives and friends they have found the time — after meeting fellow Ukrainians, Russians and sympathetic Americans through Facebook — to gather supplies to be shipped back to Ukraine.

"America is in tune with Ukraine and the Ukrainian people," said Serhii. "We are very grateful to be able to help send food and medical supplies back home."

Oksana added, "We just wish everyone would stop fighting, end the war and live in peace."

Miami World Middle Creating Transformational Artwork Program

By Brasco PolinniLast updated Apr 13, 2022

LIFESTYLE

Now on display, the first work to be completed as part of Miami Worldcenter's new public art initiative is a massive colorful mural by contemporary artist Nina Chanel Abney which graces the walls of a pedestrian tunnel and the exterior façade of a parking garage at the development.

Miami Worldcenter, the 27-acre "city within a city" transforming the heart of Downtown Miami, is teaming up with international art dealer and curator Jeffrey Deitch who will spearhead the overarching curatorial vision for the $4 billion mixed-use development's public art program.

Deitch will collaborate with Primary, a Miami-based curatorial collective with a focus on public works, to bring Miami Worldcenter's aesthetic vision to life.

Deitch has been involved with modern and contemporary art for nearly 50 years as an artist, writer, curator, dealer, and advisor. He was director of the Museum of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles, and has been especially active in Miami advising private collectors and public art projects since 1982.

Deitch is known for the art performances and curated projects that he has presented in conjunction with Art Basel Miami Beach every year since 2002.

Primary (Books Bischof, Cristina Gonzalez, and Typoe Gran) is a context and research-driven curatorial collective with a focus on public art. Based in Miami, Primary's contributions to contemporary muralism have sculpted the international urban perspective since 2007, delivering a distinct brand of outdoor and gallery-based projects that harness the defiant spirit of the counterculture.

"Miami has become one of the leading centers of contemporary art with its prestigious art fairs, public and private museums, and its innovative public art projects," Deitch said. "The art program at Miami Worldcenter will enhance Miami's stature as an international art destination."

The first group of artists slated to display their works throughout Miami Worldcenter are as follows:

Nina Chanel Abney is a contemporary artist who explores race, gender, pop culture, and politics in her work. Combining representation and abstraction, Abney's paintings capture the frenetic pace of contemporary culture through a bracing use of color and unapologetic scale.

Abney's large-scale mural at Miami Worldcenter, which recently became the first piece to be completed under the development's sitewide art curation program, is bright, colorful, and active — and deals with the heritage of Miami's historic Overtown community:

"I created pictorial language to tell an imagined narrative that investigates community renewals and removals. The mural location, a tunnel formed by the dark passageway under the building, inspired me to consider the legacy of preserving sacred spaces with story. I hope to spark a dialogue around gentrification and encourage a curiosity among viewers to engage with and learn about the previous and adjacent neighborhoods," Abney said.

Woody De Othello is a Miami-born, California-based sculptor of Haitian heritage. The subject matter in De Othello's art spans household objects, figurative elements, and the natural world. His sense of humor enlivens his work.

Viktor El-Saieh is a Miami-raised artist of Haitian and Palestinian heritage who explores folklore, politics and culture through the lens of Haitian political-mythology.

Nick Cave is an American sculptor, dancer, and performance artist. Cave is best known for his Soundsuits — wearable fabric sculptures that are bright, whimsical, and other-worldly.

This is his first ever outdoor figurative sculpture.

Trenton Doyle Hancock is a Texas-based artist working with multiple mediums. Influenced by comics, graphic novels, cartoons, music and film, Hancock is known for his visual work that focuses on the mythology and representation surrounding the eternal battle between good and evil.

Additionally, Miami Worldcenter has created an art advisory committee, comprised of distinguished curators and museum directors who will have a role in shaping the artistic landscape of the $4 billion development. The committee is comprised of Franklin Sirmans, director of Pérez Art Museum Miami; Alex Gartenfeld, artistic director at the Institute of Contemporary Art, Miami; Nicholas Baume, director and chief curator of Public Art Fund, and Cecilia Alemani, director and chief curator of High Line Art in New York and artistic director of the 2022 Venice Biennale.

"Miami Worldcenter is home to residents from more than 50 countries around the world, a representation of the global economic powerhouse the city has evolved into. Art is something that transcends language, borders and culture, and we are investing in something that is meaningful and will impact our community for decades to come," said Nitin Motwani, managing partner of Miami Worldcenter Associates.

"Arts and culture are vital elements that transform developments into inspiring destinations. CIM is well-acquainted with Jeffrey's curatorial vision through our partnership developing his namesake Los Angeles gallery in the Sycamore District. I believe that under Jeffrey Deitch's direction, and in collaboration with Primary, Miami Worldcenter's collection will have internationally renown," said Shaul Kuba, co-founder and principal, CIM Group.

As the second-largest urban mixed-use development in the US, only behind New York City's Hudson Yards, Miami Worldcenter will be the city's epicenter for where lifestyle and business intersect, comprised of a diverse mix of residential, commercial and hospitality uses complemented by Approximately 300,000 square feet of retail, restaurant, and entertainment space. The development's curatorial assemblage is devising an art program befitting the region's most transformational project.

"Working with Miami Worldcenter is an honor and a homecoming, allowing us to contribute to a neighborhood we have an intimate relationship with," explained Books Bischof, founding partner of Primary. "Advancing the curatorial of the public art collection at Miami Worldcenter is a unique opportunity to highlight the values and lifestyle of Miami through the prism of world-class artists."

Miami Worldcenter's rise coincides with a surge of development, tourism and population growth within Downtown Miami. Ten years ago, the urban core was a 9-to-5 district, but today it is home to the largest concentration of entertainment and cultural venues in the Southeast US. Miami Worldcenter is surrounded by some of the most exciting demand drivers in Miami, including : Museum Park, home to Perez Art Museum Miami and the Frost Museum of Science; FTX Arena; Adrienne Arsht Center for the Performing Arts, and Miami-Dade College's Downtown Miami campus.

Miami Worldcenter is also adjacent to Brightline's MiamiCentral station, which offers direct train service to Fort Lauderdale and West Palm Beach, and soon to Orlando, together with access to TriRail, the Metromover and the Metrorail — making Miami Worldcenter the largest and most-connected transit-oriented development in Florida.

A prequel to "The Dragon and The Rose" will take you to the time when the complex tangle of relationships in the Royal House of Calmora were forged during a civil war. It is a kingdom where Magic is considered a myth for children, but its power directly affects everyone in this struggle.

Come follow the journey of four friends through hate, deception, love, death, and sorrow while forces threaten to destroy their world and all they love. For COME THE REALMS OF WINTER their world may end.

One young man stands on a windswept hilltop. Eighteen years old and on the run. Cold, hungry, alone, and unsure of friend or foe. Prince of the Kingdom of Calmora and hunted across the kingdom by a "loving" Uncle who it seems wants him dead.

Another young man struggles to control and understand the growing strength of his 'talent'. A talent few others believe in, knows about and that is including his family. A power that frightens him, and may very well consume his very life or soul.

A third watches as betrayal and death crashes down around him, and everyone he loves are placed in harm's way. That is no matter what choices in this journey that he makes.

A fourth finds he can pledge his life and honor for love and friendship. That is as he could not just for his family name and blood ties. Now what will that pledge cost him and his love.

Excerpt

Retreat? Jullian's head snapped around at the loud trumpet calls of retreat from Henry's line. What in Bloody blazes? Rising in his stirrups, he scanned the line, kneeling his horse back from the heaviest fighting.

He found Henry and he was dragging someone with him away from two men from two D'Bries! Jullian searched for Aldric and found him bracketed by Calmorian mercenaries. The retreat sounded again and the Calmorian line began to break and move at a run back.

Aldric yelled triumphantly and signaled his men to attack.

"No!" Jullian covered the distance in two strides and he grabbed Aldric. "No! Do not follow something is wrong Dirk. Look!" he pointed in the direction where Will and Stephen had dismounted and stood over a body.

The men closed ranks again blocking them from view, but beyond was Henry with someone struggling in his grasp. It was Samuel, Jullian saw as he dragged off his helm with one hand flinging it away then yelled in their direction.

Nothing should have reached them they were too far away and the battle raged around them, and yet the scream somehow did echo to them.

"Another death! All down one at a time!" Samuel yelled again.

"Another? Jullian? This is all death," Aldric shook free of his hold, "Something is not right, Jullian?"

Henry's forces were pelting off in full retreat now frantically expecting to be cut down.

"Hold." Aldric yelled and signaled to his lead Guard, "Hold them where they are and watch to see if all of Calmorian leave the field. If they stop, be ready and wait for our next signal."

"You are right to have them not follow and not attack," Jullian added his yell to Aldric's. The yells echoed through the lines.

Aldric's men milled about baffled as they drew up in response to the shouted orders. However, did draw up in lines not far from the edge of Henry's camp.

"D'Cygnet now tell me why am I holding my men here and not chasing down the scum?"

"Because, something has gone wrong. Very wrong."

Dismounting Jullian pointed in one direction and left a still baffled Aldric as he ran to where the D'Bries stood over the fallen body.

"Oh Lord Bless," he croaked out recognizing the man at their feet as Stephen bent down and pulled off the blood covered helm.

Tower Theater Miami Launches Art Film Series

Miami Dade College's new series will kick off July 19 with a screening of Frida Kahlo at the Little Havana theater

By Site Staff - July 19, 2022

Miami Dade College's Tower Theater Miami in Little Havana will bring seven art films to the big screen in a new series launching July 19. Through April 18, 2023, the series will feature films about legendary artists to suit every fancy, from an intriguing depiction of Mexican painter Frida Kahlo to a stunning examination of the remarkable and often controversial Pierre-Auguste Renoir collection at Philadelphia's Barnes Foundation.

Two of the films will be new to audiences at Tower Theater Miami. The first is Hopper, which chronicles the life of American realist painter and printmaker Edward Hopper. The second is The Last Vermeer, based on the true story of Dutch artist, portraitist, and art forger Han van Meergeren. The other five films are returning to the Tower Theater by popular demand, including the debut film in the series, Frida Kahlo.

"We began to program Exhibition on Screen films a few years ago and were immediately blown away by how much our audience appreciated them and how strong the demand was to see more," said Nicolas Calzada, interim executive director of MDC's Tower Theater Miami and Miami Film Festival. "These are visually gorgeous, entertaining, and informative documentaries that make you feel like you spent the evening in the Louvre, The Met, or the Prado. These films appeal to art aficionados, but are also accessible to audience members who aren't experts and just want to learn more and enjoy the imagery. We look forward to this new season, which combines some new releases with some of the most beloved films in the series."

In addition to the film series, Tower Theater Miami will also feature "Kitsch Medley," an art exhibit by local Cuban-American visual artist Daniel Marin. Marin employs elements of Pop Art, abstraction, street art, carpentry, and décollage to reveal colorful and surreal moments in his paintings. The public will have an opportunity to view the free exhibit on the second floor of Tower Theater Miami.

Each film will be shown at 7 p.m. Check out the full list of films in the series:

- July 19 – Frida Kahlo
- August 16 – Canaletto and the Art of Venice
- September 20 – Goya Visions of Flesh and Blood
- October 18 – Hopper
- November 29 – Cezanne: Portraits of a Life
- December 13 – Renoir: Revered and Reviled
- April 18, 2023 – Vermeer: The Blockbuster Exhibition

Tickets for the art film series are $15 per person, per movie, and $13 for Miami Film Society members. To purchase tickets, click here.

MDC's Tower Theater Kicks Off Collab With Local Cuban-American Artist at Free Community Event

The FREE "Kitsch Medley" exhibit will be on view from August 5 - October 12, 2022.

Miami Dade College's (MDC) historic Tower Theater Miami, one of the city's most cherished cultural landmarks, will feature a "Kitsch Medley" exhibit by local Cuban-American visual artist Daniel Marin from August 5 - October 12, 2022. The public can meet Marin and view his colorful pop art during a free cocktail reception courtesy of Estrella Damm and E11even Vodka from 6 - 8:30 p.m. on Friday, August 5, 2022. RSVP HERE.

"We're thrilled to be able to support talented, local artists like Daniel Marin by providing a spectacular space where the public can discover their artwork," said Nicolas Calzada, Interim Executive Director of the Miami Film Festival and Tower Theater. "Tower Theater Miami is steeped in rich Cuban history, dating back to the early 1960s. This is an opportunity for us to celebrate our roots while shining a spotlight on artists who are doing great work in our community."

A self-taught artist, Marin creates his work under the conceptual moniker Department M. His paintings bring together elements of pop, abstraction, street art, carpentry and décollage, depicting colorful and surreal moments in time. Marin sources imagery from magazines, comic books, newspapers and many other forms of media, blending features from each to craft the images in his work. The Miami-bred artist develops each piece using a layering approach including silk-screening, freehand painting, hand cut stenciling and collage work, producing impactful compositions.

"It is an honor to be chosen to have my work on display in a space that has great significance for me," said Marin. "As a born and raised Miami local, and a member of the Cuban community here, I have fond memories visiting Tower Theater with my parents and grandparents. I hope everyone who sees my work will engage with both the humor and tension found throughout my visual narratives."

Located next to famed Domino Park in the heart of Little Havana, Tower Theater Miami is known for featuring films that helped introduce many Cuban families, who fled to Miami in the early 1960s, to American culture. Some of this history is chronicled in large portraits donated by HistoryMiami along the walls of the Theater's second-floor exhibit space where Marin's work will also be on display. Back then, the Theater altered its programming to include English-language films with Spanish subtitles, and eventually Spanish-language films, a tradition which continues today.

Over the years, Tower Theater Miami has become a social gathering spot for both movie and culture lovers alike. The Theater regularly features indie films; year-round events including movie premieres with actors, directors and producers; and culturally-specific exhibits. Additionally, it is home to MDC's acclaimed Miami Film Festival (March 3-12, 2023) and GEMS (November 3-6, 2022), a four-day event to present "the jewels of the fall cinematic season."

The FREE "Kitsch Medley" exhibit will be on view from August 5 - October 12, 2022. Additionally, Tower Theater Miami is featuring an art film series. Learn more here. For tickets, visit www.towertheatermiami.com.

2022 MLB DRAFT | LOCAL SELECTIONS

FIU's Pridgen among local players selected on the third and final day of the MLB Draft

BY WALTER VILLA
Miami Herald Writer

FIU baseball standout Patrick Pridgen, a 6-4, 220-pound right-hander, said he heard from every team in the majors "except one or two" before he finally got drafted by the Detroit Tigers in the 15th round on Tuesday.

Pridgen was one of 18 players with Miami-Dade/Broward ties to get selected in the 2022 MLB Draft, which began on Sunday and concluded on Tuesday. That count does not include two Miami Hurricanes recruits from outside of South Florida who were selected in the first two days of the 20-round draft.

"It's a long process," Pridgen said of the draft. "I started getting calls even before the draft. I heard from teams who wanted to draft me in the fourth or fifth round."

Those calls were designed to get Pridgen to sign for under the slotted value for the round in order to then go "over slot" for other players they valued.

Pridgen and his advisors resisted those bids, and they waited until a franchise came through with the signing bonus they were seeking. That organization was the Tigers, and Pridgen said he is keen on what he views as Detroit's pitching greatness, ticking off names of Cy Young Award-winners such as Justin Verlander, Max Scherzer, David Price and Rick Porcello.

"It's an organization that pumps out high-level pitchers," Pridgen said. "The organization is young and moving forward. Hopefully I can push them to where they want to be, which is at the top of the game."

Pridgen, 23, was the only FIU player selected in this year's draft. There were six Hurricanes players selected, second to Georgia Tech (with eight) in the ACC.

It was also the most Canes draftees in the top 20 rounds since 2016.

Pridgen said the Tigers want to see him throw his cutter more at the next level.

"My cutter was underutilized," Pridgen said. "The metrics say it should've been the pitch I threw the most. But I used it the third-most behind my fastball and slider."

Here's a thumbnail look at the other players with Miami-Dade/Broward ties who were drafted on Tuesday:

- Miami Hurricanes center fielder Jacob Burke was taken in the 11th round by the White Sox.

- Lefty Adam Tulloch was drafted in the 15th round by Cleveland. He pitched for seven schools in the past eight years, including Sagemont, Archbishop McCarthy and Western in high school. He finished his college career at Arizona State.

"It's been a long journey, but there's a lot of excitement now," Tulloch said. "This is the final step of the first chapter for me. I want to keep this underdog story going."

- Four picks after Tulloch, the Braves used their 15th-round pick on Miami Dade College closer William Silva, a right-hander who played his high school ball at Coral Park.

- Miami Christian right-hander Henry Martinez was drafted in the 16th round by the Padres. Martinez was an FIU recruit, but he has agreed to terms with the Padres.

Martinez was a shortstop until he moved from Colorado to Miami two years ago. Now, the 6-4, 185-pounder touches 96 mph with his fastball, and he has a curve, slider and changeup.

- Hurricanes right-hander Jake Garland was drafted in the 17th round by the A's.

- Hurricanes star closer Andrew Walters was selected in the 18th round by the Orioles.

- Champagnat switch-pitcher Jurrangel Cijntje was drafted in the 18th round by the Brewers. Cijntje, who touches 96 mph with his right hand and 92 with his left, might opt to pitch for Mississippi State rather than sign pro now. He has been on his college campus since July 5, taking early classes.

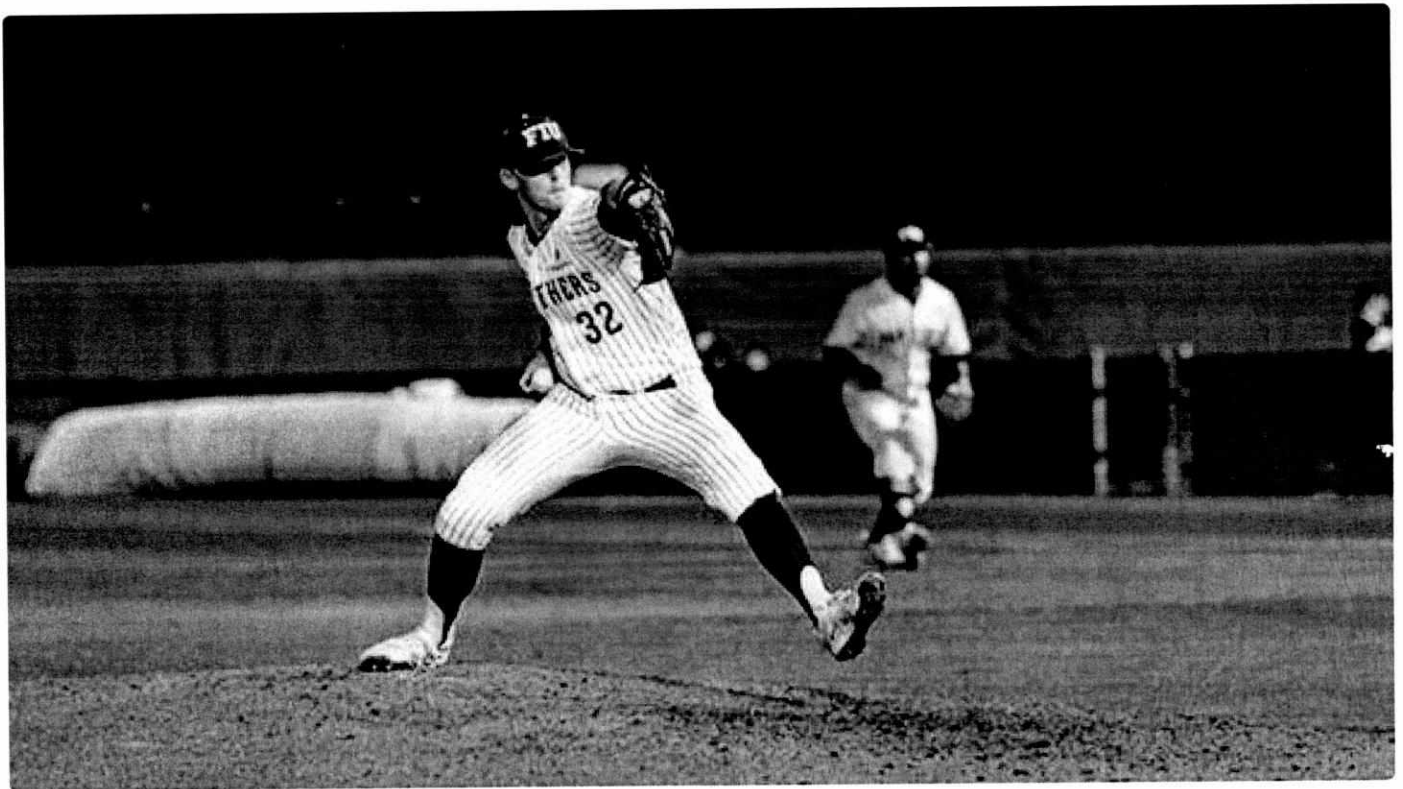

- North Broward Prep right-hander Yoel Tejada — a 6-7, 210-pounder whose fastball sits at 92-95 mph — went in the 19th round to the Pirates. Tejada, who signed with the Florida Gators, is also a switch-hitter who plays the corners in the infield and the outfield.

"His potential is off the charts," North Broward Prep coach Brian Campbell said. "He was drafted as a pitcher, but he can swing it, too."

FIU's Patrick Pridgen among local players selected on the final day of the MLB Draft

By Walter Villa

 Miami Herald 13 hours ago

FIU right-handed pitcher Patrick Pridgen is ranked among Baseball America's top 150 prospects, which would place him in the top-five rounds of this July's MLB draft FIU Sports Information

FIU baseball standout Patrick Pridgen, a 6-4, 220-pound right-hander, said he heard from every team in the majors "except one or two" before he finally got drafted by the Detroit Tigers in the 15th round on Tuesday.

Pridgen was one of 18 players with Miami-Dade/Broward ties to get selected in the 2022 MLB Draft, which began on Sunday and concluded on Tuesday. That count does not include two Miami Hurricanes recruits from outside of South Florida who were selected in the first two days of the 20-round draft.

Those calls were designed to get Pridgen to sign for under the slotted value for the round in order to then go "over slot" for other players they valued.

Pridgen and his advisors resisted those bids, and they waited until a franchise came through with the signing bonus they were seeking. That organization was the Tigers, and Pridgen said he is keen on what he views as Detroit's pitching greatness, ticking off names of Cy Young Award-winners such as Justin Verlander, Max Scherzer, David Price and Rick Porcello. All four of them have played for the Tigers in recent years.

The current Tigers roster includes pitcher Casey Mize, the first overall pick in the 2018 MLB Draft.

"It's an organization that pumps out high-level pitchers," Pridgen said. "The organization is young and moving forward. Hopefully I can push them to where they want to be, which is at the top of the game."

Pridgen, 23, was the only FIU player selected in this year's draft. There were six Hurricanes players selected, second to Georgia Tech (with eight) in the ACC.

It was also the most Canes draftees in the top 20 rounds since 2016.

"Playing the game on the field is fun, but everything else is a business," said Pridgen, who is one semester away from earning his Bachelor's degree in Psychology. "When you are in the game, you understand it really well."

"Players are assets. The teams that are intelligent about how they spend their money are the ones that win."

Pridgen said the Tigers want to see him throw his cutter more at the next level.

"I wanted to show I could throw a heavy fastball at the top of the zone and then hard cutters with a lot of sweep. My cutter and slider usage should flip-flop based on the data."

Here's a thumbnail look at the other players with Miami-Dade/Broward ties who were drafted on Tuesday:

- Miami Hurricanes center fielder Jacob Burke was taken in the 11th round by the White Sox.
- Lefty Adam Tulloch was drafted in the 15th round by Cleveland. He pitched for seven schools in the past eight years, including Sagemont, Archbishop McCarthy and Western in high school. He finished his college career at Arizona State.

Tulloch spent the past three days in Weston, fishing and hanging out with his dog, a terrier mix called Milo.

"It's been a long journey, but there's a lot of excitement now," Tulloch said. "This is the final step of the first chapter for me. I want to keep this underdog story going."

- Four picks after Tulloch, the Braves used their 15th-round pick on Miami Dade College closer William Silva, a right-hander who played his high school ball at Coral Park.
- Miami Christian right-hander Henry Martinez was drafted in the 16th round by the Padres. Martinez was an FIU recruit, but he has agreed to terms with the Padres.

Ironically, Martinez was a shortstop until he moved from Colorado to Miami two years ago. Now, the 6-4, 185-pounder touches 96 mph with his fastball, and he has a curve, slider and changeup.

Hammonds star closer Andrew Watters was selected in the 14th round by the Orioles.

- Champagnat switch-pitcher Jurrangel Cijntje was drafted in the 18th round by the Brewers. Cijntje, who touches 96 mph with his right hand and 92 with his left, may opt to pitch for Mississippi State rather than sign pro now. He has been on his college campus since July 5, taking early classes.

All-Star Santiago Espinal among Orlando area major leaguers

By TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE |

July 18, 2022 at 5:08 p.m.

Santiago Espinal took an unusual path to becoming an MLB All-Star.

The 2012 Lyman High graduate is a late addition to the American League roster in place of injured Houston Astros second baseman José Altuve for Tuesday's 8 p.m. game at Dodger Stadium. Espinal, in his third season with the Toronto Blue Jays, received the news Saturday morning during a team meeting.

"It's a testament to how hard he's worked," former Lyman coach David Pringle told the Orlando Sentinel on Monday.

"Santiago is the best player I've ever coached, hands down," Pringle said. "His actions on the ballfield are instinctual. Even when he was in high school you could see how much better he was than everyone else."

A native of the Dominican Republic who moved to Seminole County as a teenager, Espinal made his mark at Miami Dade College before being drafted in the 10th round by the Boston Red Sox in 2016. He was traded to the Blue Jays two years later and made his major-league debut during the 2020 season.

"The majority of people have counted him out his whole life, but that's never changed his work ethic or his positive attitude," Pringle said. "Santiago has been working hard for years."

Espinal is one of five players from the Orlando area's high school Class of 2012 who have appeared in major league games this season, including Zach Eflin (Hagerty), Tomás Nido (Orangewood Christian), Edwin Rios (Osceola) and Jesse Winker (Olympia).

Winker, in his first year with the Seattle Mariners, joins Minnesota's Nick Gordon and Texas' Brad Miller as former Olympia players currently with big-league clubs. Baltimore's Ryan Mountcastle, Detroit's Riley Greene and Eflin all hail from Hagerty.

Washington Nationals manager Dave Martinez, a 1982 Lake Howell grad, will be in the National League dugout Tuesday as an honorary all-star assistant alongside the Atlanta Braves' coaching staff.

Below is a list of high school graduates from Orange, Seminole, Osceola, Lake and southwest Volusia counties who have been the most active area players or coaches in the majors so far during the 2022 season.

Pitchers

Zach Eflin, Hagerty, Philadelphia Phillies

Buzz: Eflin has been sidelined since June 25 with a bruised knee. In his 7th season with Phillies, he has a 3-5 (4.37 ERA) record in 13 starts with 56 strikeouts in 68 innings pitched.

Logan Gilbert, Wekiva, Seattle Mariners

Buzz: The 14th overall pick out of Stetson University in 2018, Gilbert owns a 10-3 record and 2.76 ERA with 104 strikeouts in 111 innings. His 19 starts leads the majors.

Austin Gomber, West Orange, Colorado Rockies

Buzz: Gomber debuted with St. Louis Cardinals in 2018 before securing a rotation spot last year in Colorado. He's 5-7 (5.97 ERA) this season with 67 strikeouts in 87 innings.

Zack Greinke, Apopka, Kansas City Royals

Buzz: A 6-time all-star playing in his 19th MLB season and second stint with the Royals, Greinke carries a 2-6 record (4.64 ERA) in 15 starts with 42 strikeouts

Buzz: A 1st-round pick (No. 18) out of Florida in 2018, Singer is in his 3rd season in Kansas City, where he is 4-3 (4.02 ERA) in 14 appearances with 69 strikeouts in 71⅓ innings.

Catchers

Nick Fortes, DeLand, Miami Marlins

Buzz: A walkoff homer vs. the New York Mets on June 26 is highlight of 26 games played this season. Fortes is batting .254 (18-for-71) with 9 RBIs and 7 extra-base hits.

Tomás Nido, Orangewood Christian, New York Mets

Buzz: Nido went 4-for-4 with 3 RBIs in a win vs. the Washington Nationals on June 1. He entered the break batting .211 (35-for-166) in 58 games with 15 RBIs and 9 walks.

First base

Ryan Mountcastle, Hagerty, Baltimore Orioles

Buzz: He has logged 4 hits in a game twice in his third season with Orioles. Mountcastle is batting .270 (84-for-311) with 46 RBIs, 14 home runs and 40 runs scored.

Second base

Santiago Espinal, Lyman, Toronto Blue Jays

Buzz: The third-year player turned in a 16-game hit streak in May. Espinal earned an all-star nod after batting .271 (88-for-325) with 37 RBIs, 6 HRs, 21 doubles and 33 runs scored.

Brendan Rodgers, Lake Mary, Colorado Rockies

Buzz: He belted three home runs vs. the Miami Marlins on June 1 during a 20-game hit streak. Rodgers is batting .260 (83-for-319) with 47 RBIs, 9 HRs, 20 doubles and 41 runs scored.

Third base

Brad Miller, Olympia, Texas Rangers

Buzz: Splitting time between third base and left field in his 10th MLB season, Miller has tallied 29 RBIs and 9 home runs while batting .207 (38-for-184) in 65 games.

Shortstop

Francisco Lindor, Montverde Academy, New York Mets

Buzz: An all-star in four straight seasons with the Cleveland Indians from 2016-19, Lindor is batting .248 (89-for-359) with 66 RBIs, 16 HRs, 12 doubles and 54 runs in his second year with the Mets.

Outfield

Nick Gordon, Olympia, Minnesota Twins

Buzz: Gordon is on pace for a career year in his second season with the Twins while batting .258 (51-for-198) with 13 RBIs, 16 extra-base hits and 23 runs scored in 73 games.

Riley Greene, Hagerty, Detroit Tigers

Buzz: He went 2-for-3 in his Tigers' debut June 18, then hit a walk-off homer vs. the Kansas City Royals on July 2. He's hitting .252 (27-for-107) with 11 RBIs, 15 walks and 16 runs in 27 games.

Jesse Winker, Olympia, Seattle Mariners

Buzz: An All-Star last year with the Cincinnati Reds, Winker is averaging .230 (70-for-305) with 35 RBIs, 8 home runs, 13 doubles, 51 walks and 28 runs scored in his first season in Seattle.

Designated hitter

Edwin Rios, Osceola, Los Angeles Dodgers

Buzz: A hamstring injury has sidelined Rios since early June. A World Series winner with Dodgers in 2020, he's batting .244 (21-for-86) with 17 RBI and 12 runs scored in 27 games.

Managers

Dave Martinez, Lake Howell, Washington Nationals

"It's a testament to how hard he's worked," former Lyman coach David Pringle told the Orlando Sentinel on Monday.

"Santiago is the best player I've ever coached, hands down," Pringle said. "His actions on the ballfield are instinctual. Even when he was in high school you could see how much better he was than everyone else."

A native of the Dominican Republic who moved to Seminole County as a teenager, Espinal made his mark at Miami Dade College before being drafted in the 10th round by the Boston Red Sox in 2016. He was traded to the Blue Jays two years later and made his major-league debut during the 2020 season.

"The majority of people have counted him out his whole life, but that's never changed his work ethic or his positive attitude," Pringle said. "Santiago has been working hard for years."

Espinal is one of five players from the Orlando area's high school Class of 2012 who have appeared in major league games this season, including Zach Eflin (Hagerty), Tomás Nido (Orangewood Christian), Edwin Rios (Osceola) and Jesse Winker (Olympia).

Winker, in his first year with the Seattle Mariners, joins Minnesota's Nick Gordon and Texas' Brad Miller as former Olympia players currently with big-league clubs. Baltimore's Ryan Mountcastle, Detroit's Riley Greene and Eflin all hail from Hagerty.

Washington Nationals manager Dave Martinez, a 1982 Lake Howell grad, will be in the National League dugout Tuesday as an honorary all-star assistant alongside the Atlanta Braves' coaching staff.

Below is a list of high school graduates from Orange, Seminole, Osceola, Lake and southwest Volusia counties who have been the most active area players or coaches in the majors so far during the 2022 season.

Pitchers

Zach Eflin, Hagerty, Philadelphia Phillies

Buzz: Eflin has been sidelined since June 25 with a bruised knee. In his 7th season with Phillies, he has a 3-5 (4.37 ERA) record in 13 starts with 56 strikeouts in 68 innings pitched.

Logan Gilbert, Wekiva, Seattle Mariners

Buzz: The 14th overall pick out of Stetson University in 2018, Gilbert owns a 10-3 record and 2.76 ERA with 104 strikeouts in 111 innings. His 19 starts leads the majors.

Austin Gomber, West Orange, Colorado Rockies

Buzz: Gomber debuted with St. Louis Cardinals in 2018 before securing a rotation spot last year in Colorado. He's 5-7 (5.97 ERA) this season with 67 strikeouts in 87 innings.

Zack Greinke, Apopka, Kansas City Royals

Buzz: A 6-time all-star playing in his 19th MLB season and second stint with the Royals, Greinke carries a 3-6 record (4.64 ERA) in 15 starts with 42 strikeouts through 77 $\frac{2}{3}$  innings.

Brady Singer, Eustis, Kansas City Royals

Buzz: A 1st-round pick (No. 18) out of Florida in 2018, Singer is in his 3rd season in ...read more

Mets outfielder Starling Marte feeling better, but still day to day

📅 July 12, 2022    👤 Usanewssite

ATLANTA – The Mets will play shorthanded in another game against their division rivals. Starling Marte (left groin tightness) was absent from the Mets lineup for a third straight game on Tuesday against the Braves. Marte said he felt better and improved enough to take batting practice at Truist Park. But he's still not 100 [...]

Rockies continue recent domination of Padres at Coors Field with series-clinching 8-5 win

📅 July 14, 2022    👤 Usanewssite

For a Colorado club struggling to get back to .500, having San Diego in town proved to be a much-needed elixir. The Rockies beat the Padres 8-5 in Thursday's matinee at Coors Field to win the four-game series. The bullpen stepped up big and the offense kept answering the bell. With the victory, Colorado improved [...]
